HOOVER TURNS HIS ATTENTION TO NEW YORK

TERRITORY IS DILEMMA FOR BOTH PARTIES

REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS
STRIVING TO GAIN THE 45
ELECTORAL VOTES

HOOVER TO CONFER WITH RE-PUBLICAN LEADERS AND DELIVER SPEECH

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Oct. 10. — Herbert Hoover turned his attention today to his presidential campaign in New York State, the territory which has become the dilemma of the east for both parties. Both are striving desperately for its 45 electoral votes.

Hoover will seek to learn particularly what effect the gubernatorial candidacy of Franklin D. Roosevelt, 1920 democratic vice-presidential aspirant, will have on Smith's chances in New York. Smith selected Roosevelt personally because of his vote-getting ability.

On the basis of reports to him today, Hoover probably will work out some campaign suggestions to offer at the conference of republican leaders he will attend in New York when he goes there for his speech two weeks hence. Arrangements for that address in Madison Square Garden will be discussed today.

Roosevelt is making a bid for republican votes in New York. When he arrived home from Georgia recently, he told a group of friends at Hyde Park that he would, if elected, try to be "a governor—not a democratic governor," that he never had been much of a partisan, and that he had voted for many republican candidates for town offices.

Smith's election as governor four times was due to support of many republicans in New York, normally a republican state. There have been reports that many republicans who voted for him for governor would not support him for president.

Roosevelt is reported to have considerable strength among up-state republicans, and democrats count upon his nomination to influence republicans to vote for Smith, his close friend, when they cast their ballots for him.

Hoover has received a favorable report from Senator Borah of Idaho regarding the situation in the west, where Borah has been campaigning. Borah assured the candidate he would be elected, on the basis of an investigation on his western tour.

Hoover has been so busy with conferences recently that he will be unable to complete his Boston address, to be delivered next Monday night, until shortly before his departure. He will discuss foreign trade, the tariff, and probably the merchant marine, headquarters announced today.

Hoover leaves here Sunday night for Boston. He will make several short stops in Massachusetts.

He speaks in the Boston arena at 1 o'clock, over a national radio hook-up.

Washington, Oct. 10. — Herbert Hoover today issued a call for a vigorous fight by republican state organization leaders in New York to carry the state for him against Alfred E. Smith.

He sent word to them through National Committeeman Charles D. Hilles and State Republican Chairman H. Edmund Machold, that he is depending upon them to organize the New York campaign.

Washington, Oct. 10. — Chairman Hubert Work, of the republican national committee, today invited Chairman John J. Raskob of the democratic national committee, formerly a republican, back into the republican party after the election.

"We will be glad to welcome you back to the republican party after the next election," Work said in a letter taking issue with Raskob's recent declaration that the democratic party favors a protective tariff.

He told Raskob he is glad to know the democratic chairman is still a protectionist.

DELAY FLIGHT TO INSTALL MOTOR

Curtiss Field, L. I., Oct. 10.—(UP)—Roger Q. Williams, pilot of Chas. A. Levine's Bellanca plane "Columbia," said that the plane would not start on its proposed flight to Rome today.

It was said the delay was caused by decision to install a new motor in the "Columbia."

Cuts Dwelling Fire Insurance Rates In the State

PRAGUE BUILDING COLLAPSES; FORTY BURIED IN RUINS

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 10.—(UP)—Tapping signals were heard at noon today from the debris of a seven-story building which collapsed yesterday while under construction.

The tapping inspired hope that some of the 40 persons believed buried in the debris might be alive, and workers redoubled their efforts to reach them.

The death toll had not yet been ascertained. Twelve bodies were recovered and 28 injured taken to hospitals. It was estimated probably 80 persons were in or about the building at the time of the collapse, leaving approximately 40 unaccounted for.

KNEE DEEP IN THE POLITICAL PUDDLE OF NORTHWEST

CURTIS PLACES APPROVAL ON
SENATOR ROBERT M. LA-
FOLLETTE

ALSO ON ARTHUR E. NELSON,
MINNESOTA REPUBLICAN
SENATORIAL NOMINEE

By KENNETH CRAWFORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

St. Paul, Oct. 10. — Sen. Charles Curtis, Herbert Hoover's running mate on the republican national ticket, was knee deep in the northwestern political puddle when he arrived here today for his last Minnesota speech.

Following his custom of endorsing the entire state and local republican tickets wherever he campaigns, Curtis placed his stamp of approval on Sen. Robert M. LaFollette yesterday at Superior, Wis., and on Arthur E. Nelson, Minnesota republican senatorial nominee, at Duluth.

Both endorsements, coming as they did from one of the party's national nominees, involved the Hoover-Curtis ticket to some extent, at least, in the factional politics peculiar to the northwest.

LaFollette, a progressive, has refused to endorse the Hoover-Curtis ticket, while his opponent, William H. Markham, recently filed as a conservative and a Hoover republican.

M. K. Reilly, the democratic nominee, withdrew from the race this week in LaFollette's favor.

LaFollette, therefore, has at least partial endorsement of both republican and democratic parties without committing himself to the presidential nominee of either, while Markham and his supporters are left out entirely.

Both parties believe they can carry Wisconsin if LaFollette can be induced to make a choice in their favor.

In endorsing Nelson, Curtis took no notice of the flirtatious gestures republicans have made toward Henrik Shipstead, his farmer-labor opponent. Shipstead sits on the republican side of the senate, often joins the republican progressive wing legislative fights, and holds important committee posts by sufferance of the republican party.

Like LaFollette, the farmer-labor leader has declared neither for Hoover nor Gov. Alfred E. Smith, and many believe he holds the balance of power which can swing his state to either.

George Cashman, the democratic nominee to oppose Shipstead, has withdrawn without explanation from the senatorial contest and republicans are calling his action a "deal" with the farmer-labor party to trade Shipstead votes for Smith support.

Curtis will continue his northwestern campaign with a speech here tonight and move south to Janesville, Wis., tomorrow. The Janesville speech will conclude his western campaign.

Curtis found a full program awaiting him here. A reception committee met him at his private car and escorted him to the Hotel Lowry, where a public reception was scheduled for 11 A. M.

He will be a luncheon guest of the Ramsey and Hennepin county republican committees shortly after noon and dine this evening with personal friends.

Curtis' only speech today will be delivered at the St. Paul auditorium at 8 P. M. Smith spoke in the same auditorium a fortnight ago.

Six and One-Half Per Cent Increase Would Raise Conductor, Trainman Wages to New Level

J. L. JACOBS, ECONOMIST, IN TESTIMONY TODAY

CHICAGO MAN MAKES STATE-MENT TO EMERGENCY BOARD

TRAINMEN OF WESTERN ROADS
RELATIVELY HIGHER PAID

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Wages of conductors and trainmen of 55 western railroads would reach a new high level if the men would accept the six and one-half per cent increase offered them by the roads, J. L. Jacobs, Chicago economist, told President Coolidge's emergency board here yesterday.

Jacobs, testifying for the railroads before the commission, which is investigating a dispute between the roads and trainmen, said the wages of employees of western roads have been increased 90 per cent since 1914. During the same time, he said, the cost of living has increased only 65 per cent.

Trainmen of western roads relatively are higher paid than those of southern and eastern lines, Jacobs testified.

Chicago, Oct. 10. — The public's side of the western rail wage dispute will be presented at the close of the principals' testimony, it was decided today by the emergency board appointed by President Coolidge.

A petition presented by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce asking that it be permitted to present the shippers' and receivers' ideas on the wage increase asked by trainmen of western roads was granted by the board.

It was decided the testimony of the commission would be permitted to consume only one day. The commerce commission declared in its petition that it was the public which finally paid wage increases to railroad men. The trainmen have asked for increases amounting to about seven and one-half per cent.

The Illinois Manufacturers' Association also asked to be permitted to give evidence in the case, but this was denied by the board. It was indicated, however, that the association would be permitted to co-operate with the commerce commission in its evidence.

EXECUTED FOR BEING IN FATAL PRISON BREAK

Joliet, Ill., Oct. 10.—(UP)—Charles Shader, 21, was executed at the Will county jail today for participation in the prison break at the Illinois state penitentiary two years ago in which Warden Peter Klein was killed.

ARMY AVIATION SCHOOLS MAY BE EXTENDED

RECOMMENDATION IN AMERICAN LEGION RESOLU-
TIONS

DELEGATES CAUCUS LAST NIGHT
ON A NATIONAL COM-MANDER

San Antonio, Texas, Oct. 10.—(UP)—Recommendation that army aviation primary schools be extended will be contained in resolutions to be presented in today's session of the tenth annual national convention of the American Legion.

The fight of a faction of Legionnaires to have the convention go on record urging the establishment of an aviation department independent of the army and navy departments appeared to be lost. The aeronautical committee is expected to ignore the faction's fight.

Most delegates caucused last night on a national commander. Capt. John Ewing, publisher of the Shreveport, La., Times, was favored today for this post.

Detroit held the edge today in the race for the next convention city. Problems connected with world peace, foreign relations, rehabilitation and military affairs were to come before the general session today. Endorsement of the Kellogg peace pact is expected to be made by the convention.

Fifty bands and bugle and drum corps will compete today for the $5,000 in prizes. Illinois, with eight corps, has the largest number of musicians at the convention. Wisconsin, with three bands, leads the lists in that division.

Federal agents and Texas Rangers interfered with the induced gaiety of the off-convention hours. A gambling resort was raided yesterday and 17 were arrested on liquor charges.

HOT WINDS FROM ALPS DELAY START

FLIGHT OF DIRIGIBLE GRAF ZEP-PELIN THREATENED WITH NEW POSTPONEMENT

AREA OF DEPRESSION AT SEA IS BELIEVED MOVING
EASTWARD

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Oct. 10.—(UP)—A prospective foe, or hot, strong wind from the Alps, threatened today to delay further the start of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin for the United States.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the dirigible, was optimistic, however. He said he would start as soon as possible—even today if the weather reports from the Atlantic improved suddenly. The area of depression at sea was moving eastward rapidly.

The foe, an unknown quantity, sometimes threatens for days then suddenly breaks loose within an hour or two, lasting for one or sometimes two days.

If a foe comes across Lake Constance, it would be impossible for the dirigible to rise, as the hot wind greatly augments the temperature, which, combined with low barometric pressure, would prevent the Graf Zeppelin from getting her heavy bulk off the ground.

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Oct. 10.—On the basis of weather reports received today, Dr. Hugo Eckener decided to start at 8 A. M. tomorrow on the dirigible Graf Zeppelin for the United States.

New York, Oct. 10.—The German super-dirigible Graf Zeppelin will cruise over America as far as St. Louis after its arrival in this country, Hugh Allen, special representative of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation, announced today.

Among the cities it will visit are Boston, Akron, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Louisville, Washington, New York and Philadelphia if the tentative schedule is followed.

NAVY DIRIGIBLE PASSES OVER CLEVELAND, O.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 10.—(UP)—The navy dirigible Los Angeles, en route from San Antonio, Texas, to Lakehurst, N. J., passed over Cleveland at 10:15 A. M. today.

GEN. KAI-SHEK INAUGURATED HEAD OF CHINA

Shanghai, Oct. 10.—(UP)—General Chiang Kai-Shek was inaugurated president of China today.

For the first time in 17 years of her history as a republic, China thus attained a unified central government.

This was a national holiday. Chiang was installed at Nanking, the nationalist capital, with impressive ceremonies, amid general rejoicing.

He was made chairman of the nationalist government council, with the title of president.

Chiang will head a definite form of government, which for the present, at least, will be based on an administration of executive, legislative and judicial functions by five boards or councils.

SENATOR ROBINSON INTO HOME AREA OF HERBERT HOOVER

TO WAGE CAMPAIGN OF DEMO-CRATIC PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEE

ROBINSON INVADES SAN FRAN-CISCO AFTER ADDRESS AT LOS ANGELES

San Francisco, Oct. 10.—(UP)—Senator Joseph T. Robinson came into the home territory of Herbert Hoover today to wage the campaign of the democratic presidential nominee.

The candidate for vice-president invaded San Francisco after an address in Los Angeles last night in which he pledged support to plans for development of the Boulder Canyon Dam project.

Governor Alfred E. Smith, Robinson said, made clear in his Denver speech his interpretation of the water plank of the democratic platform.

"No doubt exists in the mind of any one who read or heard his address as to what he believes should be done. The title and control of the site and the works is to be retained in the public to assure reasonable rates and equitable distribution."

The candidate charged that "Mr. Hoover had not defined his attitude respecting this important subject. He mentioned it in an address delivered in this city (Los Angeles) and referred to water power only in a general way in his acceptance speech."

"The undertaking of the democratic party," Robinson declared, "is to serve the public, not the power trust."

Rev. Harry Noble Wilson Becomes Moderator of Presbyterian Synod

Stillwater, Oct. 10.—(UP)—The Rev. Harry Noble Wilson, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, St. Paul, today became moderator of the Minnesota Synod following his election here last night to succeed the Rev. Harold H. Baldwin, St. Cloud.

Communion was administered the delegates of the seventieth annual assembly of the Minnesota body of the church today after which routine reports and affairs came before the body.

$200,000,000 MOTION PICTURE COMBINE FORMED

New York, Oct. 10.—(UP)—A $200,000,000 motion picture combination involving Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., the Vitaphone Corporation, the Stanley Co. of America, and First National Pictures, Inc., was announced here last night.

The Stanley Co., with an annual purchasing power of $10,000,000 for film rentals, brings Warner Bros. to the fore as one of the largest producing-distributing-exhibiting companies in the film industry.

SLASH OF OVER HALF MILLION DOLLARS MADE

GEORGE W. WELLS, STATE INSUR-ANCE COMMISSIONER, TAKES ACTION

RATES PRESCRIBED TODAY ARE RETROACTIVE TO JUNE 18

St. Paul, Oct. 10.—(UP)—Minnesota dwelling fire insurance rates were slashed more than $565,000 today when George W. Wells, state insurance commissioner, filed a decision in protest against rates put into effect June 18 by insurance companies.

Wells not only set previous rates aside but ordered even lower rates than had been in effect.

The rates prescribed today are retroactive to June 18 and instead of a $414,878 increase as asked by the companies, lower rates more than $151,119 over those in effect prior to June 18.

In his new rates, Wells fixed a reclassification of the state in which Minneapolis and St. Paul fall in class "A" restoring old rates on dwellings with unapproved roofs, while others decreased two cents; Duluth and 17 northern counties were placed in class "B" which provides a general schedule eliminating forest exposure charge; and the remainder of the state was placed in class "C" which gives all remaining cities and towns a reduction of two cents on frame and brick dwellings with unapproved roofs, and a four cent reduction in the rate on dwellings with approved roofs.

Counties in class "B" include: Aitkin, Beltrami, Carlton, Cass, Crow Wing, Mille Lacs and St. Louis.

PARTISAN POLITICS DECRIED BY NORRIS

Fairmont, Minn., Oct. 10.—(UP)—Partisan politics is one of the greatest curses in America, United States Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska said here last night in endorsing the candidacy of Henrik Shipstead, farm-labor candidate for re-election to the United States senate.

Norris indirectly attacked President Coolidge and Herbert Hoover for their actions regarding Muscle Shoals, and defended Shipstead as one of the most powerful opponents of the "power trust."

The power trust, he said, represents a capital greater than that of all the railroads combined. He accused the trust of paying "shrewd men huge sums of money to spread its propaganda into the schools, homes, churches and even to the Boy Scout organization."

"Herbert Hoover's statement that surplus power at Muscle Shoals should be disposed of on such terms and conditions as will safeguard and protect the public interest should be satisfying to the power trust," Norris said.

"Every one who wants to turn this surplus power over to the trust can unite with Hoover under this banner."

GOVERNOR RITCHIE TO SPEAK ON RELIGIOUS INTOLERANCE

Chicago, Oct. 10.—(UP)—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland will open the democratic national campaign in Chicago with a speech on religious intolerance tonight.

Ritchie, it was pointed out, is a Mason, and his utterances on religious intolerance should bear more weight even than if such came from Gov. Alfred E. Smith, democratic leaders here said.

MARATHON DANCE PROMOTER FLEES WITH $3500 PROCEEDS

Oklahoma City, Oct. 10.—(UP)—Efforts to find Jack Delmar, marathon dance promoter, who is charged with disappearing with $3,500 proceeds, were unsuccessful today.

The dance was ended yesterday as 13 couples toddled into their 99th hour. Billy Milton, of Milwaukee, one of the dancers, signed a complaint against Delmar. Dancers from Des Moines, Milwaukee, and other cities said they were stranded with unpaid hotel bills.

St. Paul, Oct. 10. — Sen. Charles Curtis, Herbert Hoover's running mate on the republican national ticket, was knee deep in the northwestern political puddle when he arrived here today for his last Minnesota speech.

Following his custom of endorsing the entire state and local republican tickets wherever he campaigns, Curtis placed his stamp of approval on Sen. Robert M. LaFollette yesterday at Superior, Wis., and on Arthur E. Nelson, Minnesota republican senatorial nominee, at Duluth.

$200,000,000 MOTION PICTURE COMBINE FORMED

New York, Oct. 10. — (UP) — A $200,000,000 motion picture combination involving Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., the Vitaphone corporation, the Stanley Co. of America, and First National Pictures, Inc., was announced here last night.

The Stanley Co., with an annual purchasing power of $10,000,000 for film rentals, brings Warner Bros. to the fore as one of the largest producing-distributing-exhibiting companies in the film industry.

GEORGE W. WELLS, STATE INSUR- ANCE COMMISSIONER, TAKES ACTION

RATES PRESCRIBED TODAY ARE RETROACTIVE TO JUNE 18

St. Paul, Oct. 10. — (UP) — Minnesota dwelling fire insurance rates were slashed more than $565,000 today when George W. Wells, state insurance commissioner, filed a decision in protest against rates put into effect June 18 by insurance companies.

Wells not only set previous rates aside but ordered even lower rates than had been in effect.

The rates prescribed today are retroactive to June 18 and instead of a $414,878 increase as asked by the companies, lower rates more than $151,119 over those in effect prior to June 18.

In his new rates, Wells fixed a reclassification of the state in which Minneapolis and St. Paul fall in class "A" restoring old rates on dwellings with unapproved roofs, while others decreased two cents; Duluth and 17 northern counties were placed in class "B" which provides a general schedule eliminating forest exposure charge; and the remainder of the state was placed in class "C" which gives all remaining cities and towns a reduction of two cents on frame and brick dwellings with unapproved roofs, and a four cent reduction in the rate on dwellings with approved roofs.

Counties in class "B" include: Aitkin, Beltrami, Carlton, Cass, Crow Wing, Mille Lacs and St. Louis.

PARTISAN POLITICS DECRIED BY NORRIS

Fairmont, Minn., Oct. 10. — (UP) — Partisan politics is one of the greatest curses in America, United States Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska said here last night in endorsing the candidacy of Henrik Shipstead, farm-labor candidate for re-election to the United States senate.

Norris indirectly attacked President Coolidge and Herbert Hoover for their actions regarding Muscle Shoals, and defended Shipstead as one of the most powerful opponents of the "power trust."

"The power trust, he said, represents a capital greater than that of all the railroads combined. He accused the trust of paying 'shrewd men huge sums of money to spread its propaganda into the schools, homes, churches and even to the Boy Scout organization.'"

"Herbert Hoover's statement that surplus power over to the trust and conditions as will safeguard and protect the public interest should be satisfying to the power trust," Norris said.

"Every one who wants to turn this surplus power over to the trust can unite with Hoover under this banner."

GOVERNOR RITCHIE TO SPEAK ON RELIGIOUS INTOLERANCE

Chicago, Oct. 10. — (UP) — Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland will open the democratic national campaign in Chicago with a speech on religious intolerance tonight.

Ritchie, it was pointed out, is a Mason, and his utterances on religious intolerance should bear more weight even than if such came from Gov. Alfred E. Smith, democratic leaders here said.

MARATHON DANCE PROMOTER FLEES WITH $3500 PROCEEDS

Oklahoma City, Oct. 10. — (UP) — Efforts to find Jack Delmar, marathon dance promoter, who is charged with disappearing with $3,500 proceeds, were unsuccessful today.

The dance was ended yesterday as 13 couples toddled into their 99th hour. Billy Milton, of Milwaukee, one of the dancers, signed a complaint against Delmar. Dancers from Des Moines, Milwaukee, and other cities said they were stranded with unpaid hotel bills.

CO-OP. CREAMERY IS BIG AID TO FARMERS

August Nelson, Manager of Farmers' Co-Operative Creamery Association Makes Report

COMPARES CONDITIONS

Creamery Pays Highest Prices to Farmers for Butterfat Through Cooperative Plan

"The Farmers' Co-Operative Creamery Association is in the business of helping the farmers, not for individual profits," August Nelson, manager of the creamery said today.

"The net profits, whether they are large or small, are distributed to the patrons in their cream checks every month. That is why the Farmers' Creamery pays high prices for butterfat. Fifty-four and 49 cents were paid for first and second grade butterfat respectively for the month of August while the other cream buyers in town paid 47 and 48 cents. Some creameries north of Brainerd paid 45 and 48 cents in the same month and in many towns west and southwest, where the farmers have no co-operative creameries, the centralizers were paying 43 and 44 cents. In Brainerd they are always paying from 3 to 4 cents more. When the co-operative creamery is paying from 5 to 6 cents above the local cream station prices for sweet cream butterfat, it means that our patrons are benefited over a thousand dollars every month. In the month of August the exact amount was $1,250.00," Mr. Nelson reports.

The price the creamery pays for cream depends on the quality of the butter produced and the volume of business. The high grade butter brings a higher price on the market and a large volume of business cuts down the cost of manufacture. By producing high quality cream and patronizing the co-operative creamery farmers can help the creamery pay the highest price for cream. This is a fact that should be taken under careful consideration by every farmer.

As the Farmers' Co-Operative Creamery Association has been operating in the service of the farmers just ten years on the first of October some figures from the records, showing the condition of the creamery in different years may be interesting to look into at this time.

The financial condition ten years ago follows:

| Assets                                                                                                                                                                                                     |             |

Balance in fixed assets, $ 8,618.78
By deducting the deficit from the balance in the fixed assets it leaves a net balance of $1,569.18 at the end of that year which was two years after the creamery started.

The last payment on the mortgage was made in the fall of 1926 and the annual report on December 31 of that year shows:

| Balance                                               | $ 9,745.00 |

| Total                                                 | $17,620.35 |

"By adding these two balances together we can see what financial gain the creamery has made during the ten years besides the $15,527.90 which has been paid out for additional improvements, machinery and equipment during the same period.

"The total pounds of butter made in 1919 were 170,000 and this year it will be over 400,000 pounds. A record of which every patron can be proud.

"The heaviest responsibility for the success of the creamery is and always has been on the buttermaker and the secretary. Wm. Handeland has been the buttermaker in our creamery over three years. He has complete charge of the manufacturing part of the business and of the help. The high quality of the butter is the best proof of his ability as a buttermaker. His services have been very valuable to the creamery. Earl Nelson and Leo Bisson have been assistant buttermakers for many years and they are both efficient, reliable workers and fine fellows. Mrs. C. O. Peterson has been the secretary for the past eight years. She has full charge of the bookkeeping. The management of the creamery depending entirely on her figures. The success of the creamery speaks well of her service.

"So far the Farmers' Co-Operative Creamery has been the best farm relief. It has stimulated dairy farming in its territory. It has put more money in circulation. The whole community has been benefited by it," according to Mr. Nelson.

The New Style That Re-Styles All Motor Cars

CHRYSLER style plus Chrysler performance and value--these are the reasons for a country-wide demand for the new Chrysler "75" and "65" that is speeding Chrysler to new sales and production records every day.

For Chrysler has achieved new heights of smooth performance and new heights of comfort and ease of handling.

And Chrysler body design has gone far beyond anything else in details of grace and beauty unmatched in other automobiles that sell for hundreds of dollars--yes, even a thousand dollars--more than the extremely moderate prices asked for Chrysler.

It is not to be wondered that with cars of such indelible behavior and roadability, in the new style that re-styles all motor cars, Chrysler experiences a demand that sweeps aside all other choices.

CO-OP. CREAMERY IS BIG AID TO FARMERS

COMPARES CONDITIONS

Creamery Pays Highest Prices to Farmers for Butterfat Through Cooperative Plan

"The Farmers' Co-Operative Creamery Association is in the business of helping the farmers, not for individual profits," August Nelson, manager of the creamery said today.

"The net profits, whether they are large or small, are distributed to the patrons in their cream checks every month. That is why the Farmers' Creamery pays high prices for butterfat. Fifty-four and 49 cents were paid for first and second grade butterfat respectively for the month of August while the other cream buyers in town paid 47 and 48 cents. Some creameries north of Brainerd paid 45 and 48 cents in the same month and in many towns west and southwest, where the farmers have no co-operative creameries, the centralizers were paying 43 and 41 cents. In Brainerd they are always paying from 3 to 4 cents more. When the co-operative creamery is paying from 5 to 6 cents above the local cream station prices for sweet cream butterfat, it means that our patrons are benefited over a thousand dollars every month. In the month of August the exact amount was $1,250.00," Mr. Nelson reports.

The price the creamery pays for cream depends on the quality of the butter produced and the volume of business. The high grade butter brings a higher price on the market and a large volume of business cuts down the cost of manufacture. By producing high quality cream and patronizing the co-operative creamery farmers can help the creamery pay the highest price for cream. This is a fact that should be taken under careful consideration by every farmer.

As the Farmers' Co-Operative Creamery Association has been operating in the service of the farmers just ten years on the first of October some figures from the records, showing the condition of the creamery in different years may be interesting to look into at this time.

The financial condition ten years ago follows:

| Assets                                                                                                                                                                                                     |             |

Mortgage 7,300.00

Total $15,490.98

Deficit $ 7,049.60

Fixed assets (building, machinery and equipment less depreciation) 17,081.51

Liabilities (capital stock paid in) 8,462.73

Balance in fixed assets $ 8,618.78

By deducting the deficit from the balance in the fixed assets it leaves a net balance of $1,569.18 at the end of that year which was two years after the creamery started.

The last payment on the mortgage was made in the fall of 1926 and the annual report on December 31 of that year shows:

Current assets $15,077.12

Investments (Land O' Lakes Creameries, Inc.) 1,913.85

Supplies on hand and other prepaid expenses 1,421.43

Total $18,412.40

Total current liabilities 11,114.60

Balance $ 7,297.80

Fixed assets (building, machinery and equipment less depreciation) 18,283.41

Liabilities (capital stock paid in) 8,538.41

Balance $ 9,745.00

The 1927 report shows a balance in the current assets $ 7,860.32

Balance in the fixed assets 9,760.03

Total $17,620.35

"By adding these two balances together we can see what financial gain the creamery has made during the ten years besides the $15,527.90 which has been paid out for additional improvements, machinery and equipment during the same period.

"The total pounds of butter made in 1919 were 170,000 and this year it will be over 400,000 pounds. A record of which every patron can be proud.

"The heaviest responsibility for the success of the creamery is and always has been on the buttermaker and the secretary. Wm. Handeland has been the buttermaker in our creamery over three years. He has complete charge of the manufacturing part of the business and of the help. The high quality of the butter is the best proof of his ability as a buttermaker. His services have been very valuable to the creamery. Earl Nelson and Leo Bisson have been assistant buttermakers for many years and they are both efficient, reliable workers and fine fellows. Mrs. C. O. Peterson has been the secretary for the past eight years. She has full charge of the bookkeeping. The management of the creamery depending entirely on her figures. The success of the creamery speaks well of her service.

"So far the Farmers' Co-Operative Creamery has been the best farm relief. It has stimulated dairy farming in its territory. It has put more money in circulation. The whole community has been benefited by it," according to Mr. Nelson.

COMPARING CANDIDATES

WITHIN the past week Brainerd has been honored with visits from Senator Henrik Shipstead and Arthur E. Nelson, and our people have had the opportunity of hearing both of these gentlemen expound their views.

Mr. Nelson, the Republican candidate for the Senate, spoke here Friday evening, and those who heard him were impressed with his clear logic and frankness. He was at pains to tell his audience where he stood on the issues in this campaign.

Monday evening Mr. Shipstead spoke here and he failed to take his hearers into his confidence.

Mr. Nelson discussed specific issues in an intelligent and informative manner while Mr. Shipstead dealt with glittering generalities.

Mr. Nelson stated in positive language that he is for Hoover for president while Mr. Shipstead left us in total darkness as to where he stands on that very important issue.

Mr. Nelson stated that ours is a government by party but Mr. Shipstead sought to tear down party lines by appealing to his hearers to vote for the man, not the party.

Mr. Nelson promised to stand with Mr. Hoover and his policies.

Mr. Shipstead said he would continue to play a lone hand, and of course, that means a negative policy.

To all intents and purposes there are but two parties in this country—the Republican and Democratic. Each of these great parties stand for certain principles and policies. The people look to the party in power to carry out its pledges but this the majority party cannot do unless it controls both the administrative and legislative branches.

The party now in power is hampered and hamstrung by a small group of so-called progressives who know not the meaning of, nor necessity for, party teamwork, hence it has not been able to make all of its pledges good. Mr. Hoover, as president of the United States, should have a Senate and House favorable to his program.

THE KIND OF LEADERSHIP THE COUNTRY NEEDS

UNDERSTAND this, friends: The world won't wail and the United States will not go to pieces if Al Smith should win. Al is a good man, a very good man—in his place, which is Albany, N. Y. But it is certain that the world and the U. S. A. will be a mite better to live in if Hoover should take the helm next March.

For eight years we have had presidents whose principal virtues were negative ones. They were popular with the business and high-income-tax-paying element because of the money they did not spend, because of the things they did not do, because of their non-interference policies. Those were fine policies for the years of the headaches arising out of the hectic over-activity of the war.

Now we are ready once more for a national leader with positive policies and with well defined ideas of his own concerning international and national problems. Governor Smith has such ideas and policies; he would not make a negative president, but we believe that an equally strong, positive man who in addition has had technical training and experience, who knows international and business problems through direct contact, who was born and raised on a farm and knows the troubles of the farmer because he owns and operates a 1200-acre farm of his own, we believe that a man so equipped is far better fitted for the difficult job than a professional politician with a Tammany background.—Sunset Magazine.

THE CRIPPLES WIN

THE Yankees entered the world series with the fans in a pessimistic mood. It was reported that half the players were cripples. The odds were with the Cardinals.

All we can say is that if the Yankees played ball as cripples, we would hate to see the slaughter had they entered the series without any charley horses, crippled knees, sore backs, bunions, and other physical deficiencies.

We take our hat off to Babe Ruth. We saw the Babe years ago when on a visit to New York and when the greater effulgence of our home boy, Les Bush, caused us to pay more attention to Bush than to Ruth.

Ruth entered the recent series with all the enthusiasm and pep of a high school boy. His last catch, a tearing run to third base vicinity to make a one-handed grab of a foul, was the work of a physically perfect athlete. Ruth, grinding down the anguish of a bad knee, made the run regardless of tearing cartilage or twisted bone.

St. Louis awoke after the series like a man "coming to" after a nightmare.

FUN IN A CAMPAIGN IS DANGEROUS

It is an old axiom in politics that fun in a campaign is dangerous.

We actually believe that Governor Alfred E. Smith lost thousands of votes when he turned to his St. Paul audience and said: "Now, let me give you the low-down on this."

This kind of Bowery talk comes with ill-fitting grace from the lips of a man who expects to be a president of the United States. We can get enough slang from other sources without having a presidential candidate contribute the exalted power of his station to dignifying such an expression.

It was heard by the St. Paul audience as well as several million radio fans and again repeated in the newspapers.

WHAT CAUSES BRILLIANT FALL FOLIAGE?

WHAT causes the brilliant coloring of foliage in the fall? It is not the frost, George L. Nason, St. Paul superintendent of parks, claims.

"In my opinion the ancient theory that leaves of trees and shrubs take on more brilliant hues after a severe frost or two is bosh," Nason said.

"The display of fall foliage this year is beautiful—and we have had only very light frosts, not nearly as severe as ordinarily. It is not the nipping of frost, but the ripening and maturing of the foliage that brings these beautiful colorings."

An Invitation to Hoover Supporters

A sincere, nation-wide effort is being made to get away from even the implication of an obligation which may be associated with the solicitation of large sums of money for discharging the expenses of a Presidential campaign. There has for many years been a growing feeling that the holder of the highest office within the gift of the Republic should owe his position solely and singly to the people whom he is chosen to serve. This sentiment has crystallized this year in the effort sponsored by the National Central Committee known as the Hoover Popular Subscription Fund, of which, in this state, J. F. Gould is director, working in conjunction with Hon. Ray Kern of Lake Elmo as chairman and Rudolph Lee of Long Prairie as Treasurer.

This organization has sought to create in every county of the state a working force to bring before the people an invitation to contribute $1 to the national campaign in furtherance of the ideal here briefly stated. That canvass has been made or is in progress with more or less intensity throughout the state, but even where it is most energetically prosecuted great numbers of Hoover supporters will be missed. To those who have not been approached this article is directed and it is earnestly hoped that they will take it as a personal invitation to make the contribution suggested, or a larger or smaller amount, as they may desire, for the purpose of electing a truly people's candidate for President.

Fill out the coupon below fully and plainly so the National Committee may return to you a receipt by mail, enclose it with your check or currency and leave at the office of this newspaper or send direct by mail to J. F. Gould, 332 West Hotel, Minneapolis, Minn.

Consider the diplodocus

The diplodocus was the most gigantic animal that ever lived. It was eighty-five feet long and weighed scores of tons. Yet despite its tremendous bulk it had a brain the size of an English walnut.

Millions of years ago the diplodocus flourished. But when conditions changed, it was unable to adapt itself to a new existence. Other animals, less strong, but more intelligent, invaded its domain. And so, with the unceasing march of progress, its race died out and vanished.

It is just as necessary today as it was in the Upper Jurassic period to keep abreast of the times. Conditions are changing under our very eyes. New inventions, new products are constantly being brought forward to make life easier and happier. If we do not take advantage of them, we fall behind the procession.

COMPARING CANDIDATES

WITHIN the past week Brainerd has been honored with visits from Senator Henrik Shipstead and Arthur E. Nelson, and our people have had the opportunity of hearing both of these gentlemen expound their views.

Mr. Nelson, the Republican candidate for the Senate, spoke here Friday evening, and those who heard him were impressed with his clear logic and frankness. He was at pains to tell his audience where he stood on the issues in this campaign.

Monday evening Mr. Shipstead spoke here and he failed to take his hearers into his confidence.

Mr. Nelson discussed specific issues in an intelligent and informative manner while Mr. Shipstead dealt with glittering generalities.

Mr. Nelson stated in positive language that he is for Hoover for president while Mr. Shipstead left us in total darkness as to where he stands on that very important issue.

Mr. Nelson stated that ours is a government by party but Mr. Shipstead sought to tear down party lines by appealing to his hearers to vote for the man, not the party.

Mr. Nelson promised to stand with Mr. Hoover and his policies.

Mr. Shipstead said he would continue to play a lone hand, and of course, that means a negative policy.

To all intents and purposes there are but two parties in this country—the Republican and Democratic. Each of these great parties stand for certain principles and policies. The people look to the party in power to carry out its pledges but this the majority party cannot do unless it controls both the administrative and legislative branches.

The party now in power is hampered and hamstrung by a small group of so-called progressives who know not the meaning of, nor necessity for, party teamwork, hence it has not been able to make all of its pledges good. Mr. Hoover, as president of the United States, should have a Senate and House favorable to his program.

THE KIND OF LEADERSHIP THE COUNTRY NEEDS

UNDERSTAND this, friends: The world won't wail and the United States will not go to pieces if Al Smith should win. Al is a good man, a very good man—in his place, which is Albany, N. Y. But it is certain that the world and the U. S. A. will be a mite better to live in if Hoover should take the helm next March.

For eight years we have had presidents whose principal virtues were negative ones. They were popular with the business and high-income-tax-paying element because of the money they did not spend, because of the things they did not do, because of their non-interference policies. Those were fine policies for the years of the headaches arising out of the hectic over-activity of the war.

Now we are ready once more for a national leader with positive policies and with well defined ideas of his own concerning international and national problems. Governor Smith has such ideas and policies; he would not make a negative president, but we believe that an equally strong, positive man who in addition has had technical training and experience, who knows international and business problems through direct contact, who was born and raised on a farm and knows the troubles of the farmer because he owns and operates a 1200-acre farm of his own, we believe that a man so equipped is far better fitted for the difficult job than a professional politician with a Tammany background.—Sunset Magazine.

THE CRIPPLES WIN

THE Yankees entered the world series with the fans in a pessimistic mood. It was reported that half the players were cripples. The odds were with the Cardinals.

All we can say is that if the Yankees played ball as cripples, we would hate to see the slaughter had they entered the series without any charley horses, crippled knees, sore backs, bunions, and other physical deficiencies.

We take our hat off to Babe Ruth. We saw the Babe years ago when on a visit to New York and when the greater effulgence of our home boy, Les Bush, caused us to pay more attention to Bush than to Ruth.

Ruth entered the recent series with all the enthusiasm and pep of a high school boy. His last catch, a tearing run to third base vicinity to make a one-handed grab of a foul, was the work of a physically perfect athlete. Ruth, grinding down the anguish of a bad knee, made the run regardless of tearing cartilage or twisted bone.

St. Louis awoke after the series like a man "coming to" after a nightmare.

FUN IN A CAMPAIGN IS DANGEROUS

It is an old axiom in politics that fun in a campaign is dangerous.

We actually believe that Governor Alfred E. Smith lost thousands of votes when he turned to his St. Paul audience and said: "Now, let me give you the low-down on this."

This kind of Bowery talk comes with ill-fitting grace from the lips of a man who expects to be a president of the United States. We can get enough slang from other sources without having a presidential candidate contribute the exalted power of his station to dignifying such an expression.

It was heard by the St. Paul audience as well as several million radio fans and again repeated in the newspapers.

WHAT CAUSES BRILLIANT FALL FOLIAGE?

WHAT causes the brilliant coloring of foliage in the fall? It is not the frost, George L. Nason, St. Paul superintendent of parks, claims.

"In my opinion the ancient theory that leaves of trees and shrubs take on more brilliant hues after a severe frost or two is bosh," Nason said.

"The display of fall foliage this year is beautiful—and we have had only very light frosts, not nearly as severe as ordinarily."

"It is not the nipping of frost, but the ripening and maturing of the foliage that brings these beautiful colorings."

An Invitation to Hoover Supporters

A sincere, nation-wide effort is being made to get away from even the implication of an obligation which may be associated with the solicitation of large sums of money for discharging the expenses of a Presidential campaign. There has for many years been a growing feeling that the holder of the highest office within the gift of the Republic should owe his position solely and singly to the people whom he is chosen to serve. This sentiment has crystallized this year in the effort sponsored by the National Central Committee known as the Hoover Popular Subscription Fund, of which, in this state, J. F. Gould is director, working in conjunction with Hon. Ray Kern of Lake Elmo as chairman and Rudolph Lee of Long Prairie as Treasurer.

This organization has sought to create in every county of the state a working force to bring before the people an invitation to contribute $1 to the national campaign in furtherance of the ideal here briefly stated. That canvass has been made or is in progress with more or less intensity throughout the state, but even where it is most energetically prosecuted great numbers of Hoover supporters will be missed. To those who have not been approached this article is directed and it is earnestly hoped that they will take it as a personal invitation to make the contribution suggested, or a larger or smaller amount, as they may desire, for the purpose of electing a truly people's candidate for President.

BABE RUTH, SINGLEHANDED, WON YANKEE WORLD SERIES

COLD RECITAL OF THE RECORDS BACKS CLAIM

TO APPRECIATE HIS PART, ONE SHOULD HAVE SEEN HIM
YESTERDAY

CARDS AND 4 UMPIRES ABOUT
HIM IN THE SEVENTH
INNING

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 10.—There is a well founded conviction in baseball circles today that the New York Yankees are champions of the world in fact as well as in name.

And standing out as far the greatest of players is our old friend, Babe Ruth.

The 1928 world series, which ended so abruptly at Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon with the 7 to 3 victory of the new champions, might easily have passed on into baseball history as one of the worst and most farcical ever played.

Babe Ruth changed all those pre-series odds in favor of the Cards. Single-handed, he was a whole world series.

There was only one thing that could have saved this sad "series," and the Babe had it. Superlative baseball, offensive and defensive, a brave display of spirit and a spectacular burst of individual effort. Babe Ruth had all these ready in the emergency.

A cold recital of the records which Ruth assisted in making hardly paints an adequate picture of the big fellow's contribution to the 1928 series. To appreciate Babe's part, you had to see him up there at the plate yesterday, clapping his hands and doffing his cap.

As the Cards stormed around the four blue clad umpires in the blistering seventh inning, trying to have him called out on strikes. And then see him a moment later. Casey at the bat himself never put more determination into the business at hand.

Another tremendous home run went soaring out against the clear blue sky of another perfect afternoon, and Ruth had broken up another ball game.

Out here in St. Louis they still are protesting bitterly that Umpire-in-Chief Pfirman decided wrongly when he refused to allow Sherdel's third pitch to Ruth in the fatal seventh inning to count. The Cardinal's plucky little southpaw had floated over two perfect strikes on the Babe.

Seeing what he thought was a chance to slip a third strike past Ruth, Sherdel shot back Smith's return without allowing sufficient time to elapse according to American League rules. Pfirman refused to allow the pitch to get into the record, calling time. Sherdel put everything he had into the argument, and lost. When he had to go back and pitch, he was lost, and the Yankees knocked him out of the box before Bill McKechnie could say "Alexander."

It was a sorry substitute for the Alexander of old who came sauntering from the bull pen to relieve Sherdel.

The fact of the matter is that old "Pete," once called "The Great," is just about through with big league baseball. So is Rabbit Maraville. So are several other Cardinals.

Alex finished the game, and the Yankees finished Alex. Babe Ruth brought his total of homers for the afternoon to three with another long drive over into Grand Avenue. That last blow won the hearts of the fans.

To top off his day's work, Ruth made an amazing running one-handed catch of Frankie Frisch's foul drive, a sharply hit ball no one with a crippled knee ever should have started for. The final picture one carried away from the game as the fans poured out the field and eddied in tumultuous waves across the diamond, the one of the Babe, still sprinting down past the third base boxes, holding aloft the ball and roaring with laughter.

McKECHNIE PULLED THE CARDS
THROUGH STRENUOUS NA-TIONAL RACE

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 10.—Storm clouds hovered over the head of Wm. B. McKechnie today and baseball fans wondered if another manager of the St. Louis Cardinals was at the end of his string.

Frank Snyder, former New York Giant and Cardinal catcher, who managed the Houston Texas League club the past season, has been mentioned as McKechnie's possible successor, but Sam Breadon, owner of the Cards, has denied Snyder's selection for the job.

Snyder led the Houston team to the Texas League pennant and then the Dixie championship over the Birmingham Southern League club. Shortly after the Dixie series, Snyder suddenly resigned after a salary dispute with Houston officials.

McKechnie may beat Breadon to the draw and resign before he follows in the footsteps of Rogers Hornsby and Bob O'Farrell. McKechnie is not eager to remain in baseball much longer.

"I wouldn't go through another race like the National League race the past season for a million dollars," McKechnie told newspaper men in New York before the world series opened.

Branch Rickey was deposed in favor of Rogers Hornsby during the 1925 season. Hornsby led the Cards to the National League pennant and world championship in 1926 and was traded away. Bob O'Farrell piloted the Cards to second place in 1927. He, too, was traded.

McKechnie pulled the Cardinals through one of the most strenuous campaigns in years, and he, too, may go the way of Hornsby and O'Farrell.

INJURED LIST; HOPED TO IMPROVE BEFORE GAME

Taking no chances with three of his injured men, Coach Warren Kasch yesterday shifted his plans for a strenuous workout to a light one in preparation for the game here Friday with Staples.

Brainerd will have to have every man in the best possible shape when the team enters the game against Staples. By comparing Brainerd's and Staple's score against Little Falls, Staples will have an advantage at the kickoff. With this in mind, Coach Kasch will reverse tactics for the coming game. The weakness and strength of the Staples team has been gathered and will be a very important part in determining the style of play that will be used by the locals. The Brainerd team did not show the same form against Little Falls Friday that it did the week before against St. Cloud Cathedral but it is hoped that this will be the week in which the Brainerd players will again rise to the strenuous occasion that faces them.

Swanson is having trouble with a "charley horse" which has interfered with his kicking during the last week. Gabiou is bothered with a sore shoulder and side and Fuller for the first time in two years is suffering with a sprained finger. These men are all backfield men and a shift in the backfield lineup may have to be made for the Staples game. Staples has been defeated this season whereas Brainerd will go into the game with a clean slate which should produce a psychological effect on its opponents.

Brainerd defeated Staples last year by the score of 19 to 0 in the opening game of the season, but it will be a more seasoned and experienced team that Brainerd will face Friday. The Staples boys will be ready to reverse the game of last year if at all possible, it must be considered. A good game is certain, for before the Blue and White go down to defeat, they will give their opponents more than a scare.

RETIRED YALE

By QUIN HALL

A LOT of Eastern football interest will be centered around the Yale-Georgia game which will be played at the Yale Bowl in New Haven on Saturday. Last year the Athens Bulldogs triumphed over the Elfs to the tune of 14 to 10 and with any help which Mal might need in his new duties would be gladly extended by the veteran.

The non-scouting policy which Yale has with its opponents and which was in vogue during Jones' last two years of coaching will undoubtedly be carried along by Stevens. Jones maintains that the policy was adopted at New Haven from a practical standpoint and that the question of ethics, morals or sportsmanship did not nor does not enter into it. He maintains that the trial given it has proven highly beneficial in that the team develops a far better offensive when it is forced to go on its own, rather than plan on a basis of what it knows of the opposing team's system.

Jones didn't step down until his eleven had reached an enviable position in the eastern football world. Last year Yale chared the top position in eastern football circles with the eleven from the University of Pittsburgh. Georgia alone proved unconquerable on a schedule which included Bowdoin, Brown, Army, Dartmouth, Maryland, Princeton and Harvard.

less that he will figure in the role of a master mind with all the credit for what may happen going to Mal Stevens, the new Yale coach.

It is a difficult task to keep a man of the Tad Jones type away from the football field when the Fall scrimmages start, and since Stevens learned his football under Jones it is natural to assume that any help which Mal might need in his new duties would be gladly extended by the veteran.

Fortunately, he is not without veteran talent around which to construct his machine. He has such experienced timber as Capt. Max Eddy, tackle; Firpo Green, guard; Dud Charlesworth, center; Johnny Hoben, quarterback; and John Garvey and Eddie Decker, halfbacks. Naturally, the presence of Webster and Caldwell, All-American guard and halfback, will be missed at Yale, but despite the fact that every opposing team will be pointed for a Yale killing, Stevens may come through with a great record.

Stranger things than that have happened and Tad Jones won't be far away if some friendly advice is needed.

CARDS AND 4 UMPIRES ABOUT
HIM IN THE SEVENTH
INNING

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 10.—There is a well founded conviction in baseball circles today that the New York Yankees are champions of the world in fact as well as in name.

And standing out as by far the greatest of players is our old friend, Babe Ruth.

The 1928 world series, which ended so abruptly at Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon with the 7 to 3 victory of the new champions, might easily have passed on into baseball history as one of the worst and most farcical ever played.

Babe Ruth changed all those pre-series odds in favor of the Cards. Single-handed, he was a whole world series.

There was only one thing that could have saved this sad "series," and the Babe had it. Superlative baseball, offensive and defensive, a brave display of spirit and a spectacular burst of individual effort. Babe Ruth had all these ready in the emergency.

A cold recital of the records which Ruth assisted in making hardly paints an adequate picture of the big fellow's contribution to the 1928 series. To appreciate Babe's part, you had to see him up there at the plate yesterday, clapping his hands and doffing his cap.

As the Cards stormed around the four blue clad umpires in the blistering seventh inning, trying to have him called out on strikes. And then see him a moment later. Casey at the bat himself never put more determination into the business at hand.

Another tremendous home run went soaring out against the clear blue sky of another perfect afternoon, and Ruth had broken up another ball game.

Out here in St. Louis they still are protesting bitterly that Umpire-in-Chief Pfirman decided wrongly when he refused to allow Sherdel's third pitch to Ruth in the fatal seventh inning to count. The Cardinal's plucky little southpaw had floated over two perfect strikes on the Babe. Seeing what he thought was a chance to slip a third strike past Ruth, Sherdel shot back Smith's return without allowing sufficient time to elapse according to American League rules. Pfirman refused to allow the pitch to get into the record, calling time. Sherdel put everything he had into the argument, and lost. When he had to go back and pitch, he was lost, and the Yankees knocked him out of the box before Bill McKechnie could say "Alexander."

It was a sorry substitute for the Alexander of old who came sauntering from the bull pen to relieve Sherdel.

The fact of the matter is that old "Pete," once called "The Great," is just about through with big league baseball. So is Rabbit Maraville. So are several other Cardinals.

Alex finished the game, and the Yankees finished Alex. Babe Ruth brought his total of homers for the afternoon to three with another long drive over into Grand Avenue. That last blow won the hearts of the fans.

To top off his day's work, Ruth made an amazing running one-handed catch of Frankie Frisch's foul drive, a sharply hit ball no one with a crippled knee ever should have started for. The final picture one carried away from the game as the fans poured onto the field and eddied in tumultuous waves across the diamond, the one of the Babe, still sprinting down past the third base boxes, holding aloft the ball and roaring with laughter.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 10.—Storm clouds hovered over the head of Wm. B. McKechnie today and baseball fans wondered if another manager of the St. Louis Cardinals was at the end of his string.

Frank Snyder, former New York Giant and Cardinal catcher, who managed the Houston Texas League club the past season, has been mentioned as McKechnie's possible successor, but Sam Breadon, owner of the Cards, has denied Snyder's selection for the job.

Snyder led the Houston team to the Texas League pennant and then the Dixie championship over the Birmingham Southern League club. Shortly after the Dixie series, Snyder suddenly resigned after a salary dispute with Houston officials.

FIANCEE ASKED TO BE KILLED; HE STABBED HER

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 10.—(U.P.)—His fiancée asked him to kill her, and early today Glenn Jenkins, 20, of Kansas City, stabbed Marie Young, 21, to death, then drove to the police station with the body and gave himself up.

Just before entering police headquarters, he drank poison but he was not dangerously affected. "I am ready to be hanged," he told officers in explaining he had killed a girl. He then fell unconscious, but was revived by a physician.

TAD JONES

COACH WHO MAY FIND IT A TOUGH JOB TO STAY ENTIRELY
AWAY FROM ACTIVE PARTICIPATION IN FOOTBALL

By QUIN HALL

A LOT of Eastern football interest will be centered around the Yale-Georgia game which will be played at the Yale Bowl in New Haven on Saturday. Last year the Athens Bulldogs triumphed over the Eli's to the tune of 14 to 10 and with the added confidence which comes with victory, the Georgians are determined to repeat again this year. This clash is an annual affair and, although it comes early in the season, it will give football enthusiasts a line on the strength of the rival aggressions. Another interesting sidelight on this year's struggle is the fact that while both teams are under the supervision of new head coaches—following the voluntary retirement last fall of Tad Jones of Yale and G. C. Woodruff of Georgia—the new mentors in both cases are following the systems established by their predecessors with certain innovations which any new coach is expected to try out. Despite the fact that Tad Jones gracefully bowed his way out at New Haven last year, the feeling seems to persist that he will still have a hand in football affairs at Yale, and if this is true it is doubtless that he will figure in the role of a master mind with all the credit for what may happen going to Mal Stevens, the new Yale coach. It is a difficult task to keep a man of the Tad Jones type away from the football field when the Fall scrimmages start, and since Stevens learned his football under Jones it is natural to assume that with any help which Mal might need in his new duties would be gladly extended by the veteran.

The non-scouting policy which Yale has with its opponents and which was in vogue during Jones' last two years of coaching will undoubtedly be carried along by Stevens. Jones maintains that the policy was adopted at New Haven from a practical standpoint and that the question of ethics, morals or sportsmanship did not nor does not enter into it. He maintains that the trial given it has proven highly beneficial in that the team develops a far better offensive when it is forced to go on its own, rather than plan on a basis of what it knows of the opposing team's system.

Jones didn't step down until his eleven had reached an enviable position in the eastern football world. Last year Yale chared the top position in eastern football circles with the eleven from the University of Pittsburgh. Georgia alone proved unconquerable on a schedule which included Bowdoin, Brown, Army, Dartmouth, Maryland, Princeton and Harvard.

This year Yale's schedule is just as impressive as it was last season and it seems quite a task for the youngest of the larger university head coaches. Following in the footsteps of Tad Jones who ruled at Yale for nine years is no easy matter, but Stevens has started out with a great deal of determination.

Fortunately, he is not without veteran talent around which to construct his machine. He has such experienced timber as Capt. Max Eddy, tackle; Firpo Green, guard; Dud Charlesworth, center; Johnny Hoben, quarterback; and John Garvey and Eddie Decker, halfbacks. Naturally, the presence of Webster and Caldwell, All-American guard and halfback, will be missed at Yale, but despite the fact that every opposing team will be pointed for a Yale killing, Stevens may come through with a great record.

Stranger things than that have happened and Tad Jones won't be far away if some friendly advice is needed.

POPULAR VIOLINIST HERE OCTOBER 13

Harry Farberman to Appear at Elks Hall Saturday at 3 P. M. Under Musical Club Auspices

RARE TREAT ASSURED

Delphie Lindstrom to Accompany Artist on Piano; Second High Class Concert of Month

Harry Farberman, the violinist who so charmed the Brainerd Musical club members and friends two years ago, at a Sunday concert, will be the artist at the next regular meeting on Saturday, October 13, at Elks Hall, starting at 3 P. M.

The reason for two such treats in October as the Cossack Chorus and this rare violinist is that this was the only date available for the entire season. Mr. Farberman is so popular that Mr. Culbertson has been able to book him solidly, so it was now or never. But there is also another reason for taking Mr. Farberman at this time. It is only by taking him when he happens to be passing through Brainerd that it is possible to secure him, as he is now getting $500 a concert. By giving in a date that would otherwise be wasted in traveling, a bargain rate was agreed upon that made it possible to give the Musical club members the pleasure of hearing him again. He is also bringing Delphie Lindstrom, another favorite, as his accompanist.

The program follows:

I
Sonata (Devil's Trill)—Tartini.

II
Concerto D major, Allegro Moderato—Tschalkowsky.

III
Siciliano and Rigaudon — Fran coeur-Kreisler.

Valse Macabre (Waltz of Death)—Godowsky.

Spinnig Song—Popper-Auer.

Berceuse—Juon.

Zapateado—Sarasate.

FEDERAL AID TO FIND SOURCE OF POISON LIQUOR

CAUSE OF 34 DEATHS IN NEW YORK CITY WITHIN 48 HOURS

TWO FEDERAL GRAND JURIES TAKE UP EVIDENCE IN DEATHS

New York, Oct. 10.—(UP)—The federal government today extended its aid to determine the source of the poison liquor which caused 34 deaths in New York City within 48 hours.

Two federal grand juries were likely to take up evidence in the deaths.

United States Attorney Charles Tuttle was to go before the regular grand jury this morning and ask that body to ascertain what national laws were violated, while Judge Francis A. Winslow has called a special federal grand jury for Monday afternoon to make a similar investigation.

Meanwhile prohibition enforcement in the river-front district where most of the deaths occurred, became more severe. There are 1,000 speak-easies in one mile and a half district

"The Trial of Mary Dugan" at Park Theatre Tonight

In presenting "The Trial of Mary Dugan" to audiences of this city at the Park tonight, A. H. Woods, the producer feels that he is offering them one of the most remarkable entertainments in the annals of the theatre. "The Trial of Mary Dugan" comes here with a unique record. Broadway has applauded it for a whole year; it is playing before capacity houses in London, England; it was recently produced by Max

Reinhardt in Berlin and was instantly hailed as a substantial success; and it has long since been established as a hit in Melbourne, Australia. Furthermore, before final disposition of rights have been made it is promised that "The Trial of Mary Dugan" will be playing virtually every foreign language and that it will be acted by numerous companies in this country. In this respect, "The Trial of Mary Dugan" will eclipse the record of that other great melodrama, "Within the Law" by the same author, Bayard Veiller.

CHARLES (Buddy) ROGERS CLARA BOW IN "WINGS" A PARAMOUNT PICTURE

"Wings," the war aviation picture, which will show at the Lyceum tonight, also Thursday and Friday, celebrated the first anniversary of its New York run on August the 12th, with little slackening in the remarkable business which characterized its engagement. The picture continued in New York several months after that date.

Figures in aviation were among the audiences as anniversary guests of honor each night. Commander R. C. Byrd, who attended the presentation of "Wings" a year earlier, returned to see it a second time.

Only four other motion pictures have run for a year on Broadway—they being "The Ten Commandments," "The Covered Wagon," "The Big Parade" and "Ben Hur." Analyzing the extraordinary record of "Wings," it was pointed out that during the year the Wellman-Saunders air epic was on Broadway, more than 11,000 persons, unable to procure seats, paid $1.10 each to stand.

along the river front.

Twenty were raided last night, and business in others decreased as reports of the poison liquor spread.

All the soft drink place proprietors arrested were held under $3,000 bail instead of the customary $500.

MACKENZIE DENIES DICTATING LETTER

MISSIVE REFERRED TO PRE-CONVENTION WORK FOR LOWDEN

St. Paul, Oct. 10.—(UP)—Publication of a letter signed by Claude J. Mackenzie, republican national committeeman, in which a direct attack is made upon the farm and foreign policies of Herbert Hoover today promised to embroil to a greater extent the involved political status of Minnesota.

Mackenzie is said to have denied dictating the letter, which was dated March 16, 1928, but is alleged to have confessed knowing of its contents and affixing his signature to the document. At the time the letter was sent to its recipient, G. R. Greaves, Duluth, Mackenzie is said to have been active in pre-convention work for Senator Lowden.

The letter was revealed by Hubert H. D'Autremont, chairman of the Minnesota democratic state central committee, who at the same time issued a vigorous denial that George Cashman, St. Cloud, was induced to withdraw from the race for United States senator in the interests of Senator Henrik Shipstead.

Mackenzie today declared that the publication of the Hoover attack was a "smoke screen" thrown out by D'Autremont to cover up the Cashman-Shipstead "deal." Mackenzie declared that the letter was sent from Lowden headquarters under his signature but that he had nothing to do with it.

The letter asserted that Hoover's record does little to show his friendship to the farmer and that he was "practically an English citizen back in 1917 when he was called upon to take charge of the distribution of America's food supply."

It continued that many persons suspect there may have been a secret conspiracy in which the English played an important part to place one of her own friends in the position of American food dictator. "History subsequent to Hoover's appointment bears out this thought."

It adds that James A. Patten, grain man, says that wheat would have gone to $10 a bushel had it not been for the fixed minimum price.

In a letter to Manager W. R. Hiller of the Park and Lyceum theatres, Ted Bolnick of Finkelstein & Ruben, Minneapolis, speaks words of praise for the play "The Trial of Mary Dugan," showing at the Park theatre tonight.

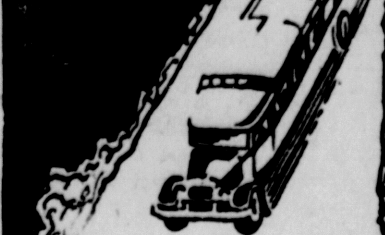

"I saw 'The Trial of Mary Dugan' at the Orpheum theatre, Duluth, with the same cast that will play this attraction in your theatre," said Mr. Bolnick, "and I must say it is without a doubt, not only one of the best dramatic shows I have ever seen, but has an excellent cast who handle their lines very competently. As this is the first road show for some of you, let's see if we can't put it over big so that we can get more shows later on."

Etching Process

An etching is made by scratching the lines of a picture on a metal plate by means of acid and wax, filling the scratches with ink and printing the impressions upon paper by pressure against the plate. A number of prints can be made from one etching.

FIRE CAUSES $10,000 DAMAGE AT GARRISON

Viers and Dickenson Store Buildings Lowered to Ground Yesterday

RESIDENTS FIGHT FLAMES

Brainerd Fire Department Assists in Preventing Spread of Fire

Two leading store buildings at Garrison, the Viers two store building housing a restaurant, grocery store and living quarters, and the J. H. Dickenson general store, also a two story building, were lowered to the ground by fire yesterday afternoon causing an estimated damage of $10,000.

Residents of Garrison and farmers from the near vicinity joined in an attempt, shortly after the flames were noticed in the Viers building, to extinguish the fire without success. Water was thrown from buckets on the flames from a nearby well and as the flames spread to the adjoining Dickenson store, a call was sent in to the Brainerd Fire Department. The Brainerd department responded, using their apparatus to pump water from Mille Laes Lake, and prevented a spread of the flames to other buildings nearby.

The fire started at noon yesterday and rapidly swept through the two frame buildings. Part of the contents of both stores was saved. The Brainerd fire department arrived at Garrison at 3 p. m., the flames being uncontrollable at that time. There were no injuries sustained in fighting the fire.

Cause of the fire is unknown. Mrs. Viers, proprietress of the Viers store was away on a trip to Fergus Falls, leaving the building unoccupied. The Dickenson store was likewise unoccupied by the owners at the time. The building is occupied by J. H. Dickenson and was constructed one year ago.

Three blazing barrels of oil caused a dense smoke to hang over the two buildings making it difficult for the workers to fight the flames.

Asked to name some of the outstanding things that interested her, Mrs. A. K. Cohen mentioned the discussion of child welfare measures—especially of the work done by Shepard-Towner nurses who go into the rural districts and give advice to rural mothers. The League plans to ask an appropriation from the next legislature to carry on this work, as national assistance ceases at the close of this year. Mrs. James Paige, a member of the legislature, said that she believed that if the men members could be made to realize what this work means to the welfare of mothers and babies, they would gladly vote a sufficient appropriation.

Mrs. Cohen was also impressed with the importance of a change in the marriage laws which should do away with common law marriages. Another point stressed in the discussions was a waiting period of five days before granting a marriage license. This would stop some marriages that are entered into in the spirit of a lark.

In the effective government discussion, Mrs. Cohen thought a valuable suggestion was made by C. F. Keyes, chairman of the Minneapolis Board of Estimates and Taxation, who thought it absurd that the election board should be required to count the ballots. He approved of the method used in some parts of California where the ballots are all taken to a central place where experts do the counting.

Of the discussions on educational matters, the point most stressed was higher qualifications for county superintendents. It was thought that this could be best brought about by the election of a county school board.

Mrs. Dean White was much impressed by the candidates meeting at which Senator Shipstead and Hon. Arthur Nelson spoke and she said that it was a real mass meeting. Both women were appalled at the report of Mrs. Eugene Dieudonne, visiting teacher of the Minneapolis schools, who said that permits had been granted during the year to over a thousand children in that city to appear at theatres and that it had seriously interfered with their school work. These children were all under ten years of age. Mrs. White said that at the Women in Industry round table, the fact was deplored that women were still working under laws passed in 1913, which did not give adequate protection, and a continued attempt to amend these laws was advised. These laws gave no protection against long hours to domestics, hotel employees, waitresses and some factory workers.

The discussion of Muscle Shoals brought out the fact that government ownership would not afford a correct rate-measuring stick, as conditions of operation and overhead would differ.

Mrs. White was much impressed by the informal conference held after the buffet luncheon, at the country club. She said that there the real work of the League was discussed and she felt proud of belonging to such an organization. She also said that the large number of young voters who have leagues of their own was a real inspiration. The grand finale of the convention was the luncheon at the Breen hotel on Saturday, when a speaker for each candidate for the presidency was asked to present her candidate's qualifications from the woman's point of view.

The democratic speaker was the head of the women's speaker's bureau, Miss Victoria McAlmon of St. Paul who, by the way, will represent Governor Smith in Brainerd next Tuesday evening, October 16, at a meeting in the farmers' room of the court house when Mrs. Albee Ladd will represent Secretary Hoover. This meeting was arranged by the local League before the state convention. But the democrats are certainly fortunate in their representative. Miss MacAlmon is young, mentally keen and full of zest for her candidate. At the luncheon, she gave a spirited discussion of the issues—a speech which would have been just as appropriate for an audience of men as of women, with the exception of the portion that dealt with Mrs. Smith's qualifications for the position of mistress of the White House. As Miss McAlmon will be heard in Brainerd, it would scarcely be fair to report her speech in full. Suffice it to say that it is a speech well worth hearing.

The republican speaker, Mrs. Vernon Kellogg, of Washington, had prepared a speech in strict accordance with the committee's instructions. She said she was told that this was not to be a debate, but simply a presentation of each candidate's qualifications that would particularly appeal to women. But she said that she never wanted to debate so much in her life. She knew that she could meet the adversary at every point, and she admitted that the adversary was worthy to be answered, but she did not deem it wise to depart from the plan of the committee. Mrs. Kellogg said that she had been a neighbor and an intimate friend of Secretary Hoover for 16 years, that she and her husband went to Belgium with him and, in fact, worked with him all through the war and helped him feed the starving women and children of Germany many after the war. She drew a strong picture of the early influences that had shaped Hoover's character and determined his career. She pictured him as a man with a great heart and a great intellect. One who was able to accomplish big things because of the loyalty and admiration he inspired in his workers. She told of the delicate diplomacy that was required to persuade the Germans to allow the passage of the food ships that saved the starving Belgians, of the confidence that the people had in this super-man, of his tender sympathy for the suffering of the people and of his thorough belief in the people—in democracy, in other words. She told how, in his work for the food sufferers, he depended on local committees to do the necessary work and after they were organized and their work was outlined, he left them. Out of over 99 such committees, only one failed him. In short, Mrs. Kellogg pictured her candidate as a man of strong sympathies, strong executive ability, strong administrative ability and of unquestioned integrity.

Besides the Saturday luncheon, there were several semi-social features. These were a buffet supper and informal fire-side meeting at the Country club, attended by 150 women, at which League policies were discussed; a young voters breakfast, attended by 75 representatives of young leaguers from St. Olaf, Hamline, Macalester, the University of Minnesota and all of the Teachers' colleges of the state; a sixth district tea at the home of Miss Muth Mitchell, who is the local St. Cloud chairman but who was one of the first chairmen of this district. A charming recognition of the League's debt to St. Cloud was the presentation of a bouquet to Miss Isabel Lawrence, who was described as the youngest, the keenest, the most useful and most ardent worker on the state board. St. Cloud certainly has reason to be proud of the way this convention was handled. If Brainerd ever has the courage to invite the state convention, we trust that they can return the compliment.

Rosko Brothers Have Already Spent $5,000 in Improving Field

The Crow Wing county Board of Commissioners got an idea first hand Saturday just what work has been completed at the Rosko field to make it one of the leading airports in the northwest. The commissioners were the guests of the Rosko Brothers in the afternoon during an inspection tour to the field where approximately $5,000 has already been spent in improving the field considered the natural location for Brainerd's airport.

The commissioners were impressed with the developments offered although no action was taken by the board as yet in regards to assistance or lease of the property. Action may be taken at the next meeting of the board.

Two tractors, rollers and other equipment have been purchased by Roskos for use in perfecting the field to make it a safe landing field from all directions. The development of the field shows foresight on the part of the Rosko Brothers who realized with others in Brainerd interested in keeping abreast with the aviation progress of the northwest that an airport will be one of the required facilities for this city, centrally located, and directly in line of several northwest proposed airlines.

FIRE CAUSES $10,000 DAMAGE AT GARRISON

Viers and Dickenson Store Buildings Lowered to Ground Yesterday

RESIDENTS FIGHT FLAMES

Brainerd Fire Department Assists in Preventing Spread of Fire

Two leading store buildings at Garrison, the Viers two store building housing a restaurant, grocery store and living quarters, and the J. H. Dickenson general store, also a two story building, were lowered to the ground by fire yesterday afternoon causing an estimated damage of $10,000.

Residents of Garrison and farmers from the near vicinity joined in an attempt, shortly after the flames were noticed in the Viers building, to extinguish the fire without success. Water was thrown from buckets on the flames from a nearby well and as the flames spread to the adjoining Dickenson store, a call was sent in to the Brainerd Fire Department. The Brainerd department responded, using their apparatus to pump water from Mille Laes Lake, and prevented a spread of the flames to other buildings nearby.

The fire started at noon yesterday and rapidly swept through the two frame buildings. Part of the contents of both stores was saved. The Brainerd fire department arrived at Garrison at 3 p. m., the flames being uncontrollable at that time. There were no injuries sustained in fighting the fire.

Cause of the fire is unknown. Mrs. Viers, proprietress of the Viers store was away on a trip to Fergus Falls, leaving the building unoccupied. The Dickenson store was likewise unoccupied by the owners at the time. The building is occupied by J. H. Dickenson and was constructed one year ago.

Three blazing barrels of oil caused a dense smoke to hang over the two buildings making it difficult for the workers to fight the flames.

WOMEN VOTERS HEAR IMPORTANT PHASES

State and National Proposed Measures Outlined at League Convention

HELD AT ST. CLOUD

Republican and Democratic Speakers Discuss Qualifications of Candidates

The 15 or more Brainerd women who attended some or all of the sessions of the tenth annual convention of the League of Women Voters which was held at St. Cloud last week, report a very successful meeting.

Asked to name some of the outstanding things that interested her, Mrs. A. K. Cohen mentioned the discussion of child welfare measures—especially of the work done by Shepard-Towner nurses who go into the rural districts and give advice to rural mothers. The League plans to ask an appropriation from the next legislature to carry on this work, as national assistance ceases at the close of this year. The toastmistress, Mrs. Banning, made a plea for sanity in this campaign which, she said, in many respects was the hottest within her memory. She was glad that the League of Women Voters furnished neutral ground where one could pause and draw a natural breath and consider dispassionately the great social problems that will have to be solved which ever candidate wins.

Besides the Saturday luncheon, there were several semi-social features. These were a buffet supper and informal fire-side meeting at the Country club, attended by 150 women, at which League policies were discussed; a young voters breakfast, attended by 75 representatives of young leagues from St. Olaf, Hamline, Macalester, the University of Minnesota and all of the Teachers' colleges of the state; a sixth district tea at the home of Miss Muth Mitchell, who is the local St. Cloud chairman but who was one of the first carmen of this district.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

WHEN Fenimore Wilde, famous Broadway actor, dies, his young and pretty daughter, Janet, obtains a job with John Montague, theatrical impresario, while her brother, Frank, an idler, goes South. Janet makes friends with Leonard Quigg, a temperamental musician who loves her, and Dr. David Churchill. When Montague insults her, Janet becomes Dr. Churchill's secretary. He tells her he is in love with her and contemplates divorcing his wife, so Janet gives up her position and goes to live with Chester Quigg, Leonard's artist uncle, and his charming little daughter, Alice. She learns how to placate old Mrs. Quigg, Chester's mother, and generally makes life pleasant for the Quiggs. Her brother, Frank, returns home broke and in debt, and accepts $1,000 from Leonard, secretly. In the meantime Janet is falling in love with Leonard. She goes driving with him in his new car, but they quarrel and he calls her a gold digger. The next morning he sends her a small gold shovel and when he phones she hangs up. Frank admits that Leonard has lent him the money to pay his debts, and introduces Janet to little Cora Niles, his sweetheart. John Montague, who is dying, sends for Janet and asks her forgiveness. He makes her promise she will accept a legacy from him. That night he dies.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

JOHN MONTAGUE left nearly nine millions. The university to which he had willed the greater part of the estate immediately paid off the legatees according to directions. Several dependants received sums varying in amount from 10 to 50 thousand; his doctor, an old friend, came into half a million; and there were two other legacies of $200,000 each, to Lucille Rhodes and to Janet Wilde, "daughter of my old and valued friend, Fenimore Wilde, as a token of the affection and regard in which I held him."

Janet received her inheritance during the middle of May. She invested it in municipal bonds, thus securing to herself an income of $12,000.

"And very neat, too!" Chester Quigg bellowed his congratulations. "An even thousand a month! I suppose this is where we lose you? Just as the studio is experiencing what it feels like to be run perfectly! It will break Alice's heart, and I shall be like a lost dog—but I can't blame you."

"You're going away?" Alice had entered the room, and had heard her father's last remark. "Oh, Janet! I don't think I could bear it!" She ran to Janet, and encircled her in her arms.

"I wouldn't dream of leaving you," Janet comforted her darling. "Where should I go? Haven't you given me a home? Stop that crying! Is this Miss Quigg—the mature Miss Quigg, in tears?"

Alice began to laugh. "What a relief!" she sighed, hugging Janet. "We have all come to rely on you."

"The only difference is—that I don't want any more salary," Janet said with a glance at Chester. "I insist on your taking a salary in future," Chester commanded grandly, "and on drawing a check now for what I owe you."

Janet was about to protest when she saw Alice's anxious little face. Obediently then, she sat down at a desk and filled out a check, which Chester signed with a flourish. Janet suppressed her smile at the thought that he would be totally oblivious of the fact that she would not cash it. She decided that in future she would always have her salary paid the same way—Chester should happily sign the check and contentedly believe that he had paid her.

"As regards the Summer," Janet remarked, "Alice ought not to be in New York. Don't you think," she turned to Chester, "that it would be a good idea to take a place in the country? You said you wanted to do some landscapes, and I might find a furnished house with a studio on Long Island, or on the Connecticut shore."

"Oh, let's!" begged Alice, fondling the Critic's ears. "Critic would love it, too!"

"Marvelous! Splendid! Wonderful!" Chester shouted. He was always enthusiastic about anything and everything, and the idea of a Summer in the country appealed enormously to him.

"Then I shall look for a place?" Janet asked. "I'm going to buy a car, anyway, and Alice and I could hunt for something."

The three of them entered joyously into house-hunting plans, when Leonard Quigg entered the studio unannounced. Janet had not seen him since their foolish quarrel about nothing at all, as Leonard, on a sudden whim, had left New York and had been staying with his newly-married friend in Vermont, the impetuous Emil Webb, from whose door Leonard's generosity had barred poverty so that love should not fly out of the window.

"Oh, how are you, Leonard?" Janet greeted him as though they had not experienced that petty quarrelsome drive. "I must congratulate you," Leonard said coldly. "All New York has heard of you coming into a couple of million from John Montague."

"It happened to be exactly a tenth of that," Janet answered, hurt at the chill of his attitude. "Still, that's not bad for a rumor."

Chester Quigg decided that he must immediately go and order an outfit of Summer clothes. It would not have been characteristic for Chester not to rush out right away and buy Summer things on credit.

"I'll have to go with him," Alice sighed, "or he will come back looking like Astor's pet horse. Daddy's choice in Summer clothes—very, very colorful." "Come on, then!" her father shouted at her. "We'll get new things, too! Velvets and furs and everything that girls like for the Summer."

"It would be very suitable—a little Summer dress of velvet and satins!" Alice smiled up at him. "My! How little you know, Daddy!"

They went off enchanted with each other, to shop, leaving Janet and Leonard alone in the big studio.

There was an awkward silence, broken by Janet.

"How have things been, Leonard?" she asked in a friendly voice.

"Oh, all right, thank you," he replied formally. He sat down and lit a cigarette. "Sold another jazz atrocity," he added as though he felt called upon to make conversation. "In fact, my future seems assured. They won't touch my serious music, but they can and do pay me for my sham. It's the old story, of the clown wanting to make his audience weep, and being permitted to make them laugh instead. However," he went on bitterly, "I should worry! I am making money, and money is the only thing that counts."

"Talking of money," Janet put in, looking at him with her direct gaze, "I have been waiting to see you."

"About money?" His voice was very cold. "Frank let out by accident that he had borrowed that money from you. He told me Slade had given it to him. That was very generous and kind of you, but I want to give you a check for it."

"The thrills of inheritance!" he sneered. "Very mean of me, Janet, but you can't have it—the thrill I mean. That transaction is entirely between your brother and me, and he has paid me back quite a bit. I don't see that you have any right to interfere. I lent it Frank's and my business?"

"Do you mind telling me," Janet asked with dangerous calm, "exactly why you are being so offensive in your tone?"

"Am I being offensive? I'm so sorry."

"Why?" Janet persisted. "Just because we quarreled the last time we met? Because I told you you were a fool to gamble on the Stock Exchange?"

Impetuously, he dashed across the studio. He sat down at the big piano and started to play a maddening jazz tune.

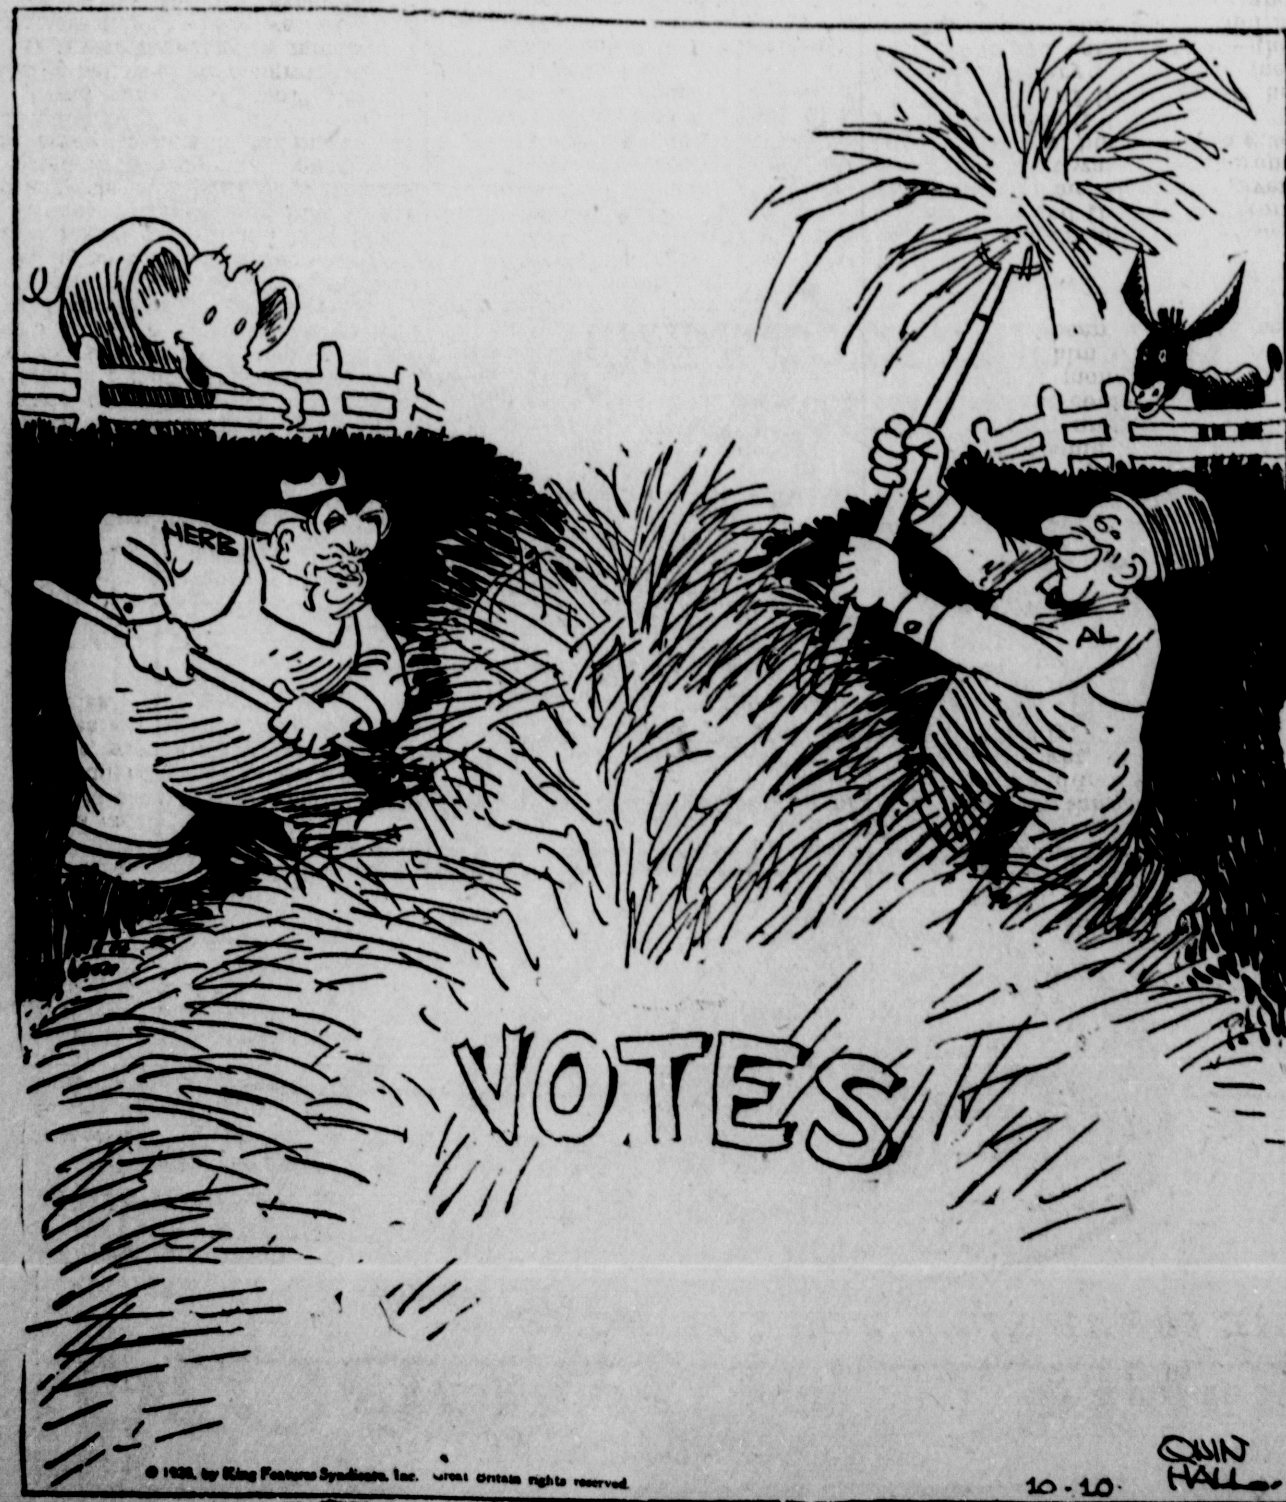

"This is why!" he almost shouted at Janet. "I wrote it last night—on hearing of John Montague leaving you money. I told you I was a clown—a clown of music—so listen and laugh! Words and music by Leonard Quigg, the great jazz-merchant!"

He thumped out the melody, and on coming to the chorus sang noisily:

"She's come into money, and I want to know why! That lady of mine— Wouldn't tell me no lie— But she's come into money, and I want to know why!"

"How have things been, Leonard?" she asked in a friendly voice.

"Oh, all right, thank you," he replied formally. He sat down and lit a cigarette. "Sold another jazz atrocity," he added as though he felt called upon to make conversation. "In fact, my future seems assured. They won't touch my serious music, but they can and do pay me for my sham. It's the old story, of the clown wanting to make his audience weep, and being permitted to make them laugh instead. However," he went on bitterly, "I should worry! I am making money, and money is the only thing that counts."

"Talking of money," Janet put in, looking at him with her direct gaze, "I have been waiting to see you."

"About money?" His voice was very cold.

"Frank let out by accident that he had borrowed that money from you. He told me Slade had given it to him. That was very generous and kind of you, but I want to give you a check for it."

"The thrills of inheritance!" he sneered. "Very mean of me, Janet, but you can't have it—the thrill I mean. That transaction is entirely between your brother and me, and he has paid me back quite a bit. I don't see that you have any right to interfere. Isn't it Frank's and my business?"

"Do you mind telling me," Janet asked with dangerous calm, "exactly why you are being so offensive in your tone?"

"Am I being offensive? I'm so sorry."

"Why?" Janet persisted. "Just because we quarreled the last time we met? Because I told you you were a fool to gamble on the Stock Exchange?"

Impetuously, he dashed across the studio. He sat down at the big piano and started to play a maddening jazz tune.

"This is why!" he almost shouted at Janet. "I wrote it last night—on hearing of John Montague leaving you money. I told you I was a clown—a clown of music—so listen and laugh! Words and music by Leonard Quigg, the great jazz-merchant!"

He thumped out the melody, and on coming to the chorus sang noisily:

"She's come into money, and I want to know why! That lady of mine—"

"Wouldn't tell me no lie—"

"But she's come into money, and I want to know why!"
